PARTICIPANTS' HIGHLIGHTS

“The conference was interesting, but time allocation limited. May be in future you can have less presenters in a day but run the conference for a longer time”

“We look forward to further actively participate in the various thematic areas as we scale up efforts toward landscape restoration and ultimately ecosystem restoration.”

“Further engagement on capacity building, women and youth-led initiatives”

“I love the conference and more of this should be conducted”

“Well organized workshop.Excellent information sharing platform”

“This should be more frequent maybe quarterly or even monthly”

“If possible let's do this more”

“The national working taskforce should consider representation from NGOs.”

“Enhancing capacity building opportunities for passionate young researchers”

“Very informative, an eye-opener towards restoration of our environment wellbeing. Looking forward to further inclusion on engagements focused on the same.”

“Build capacity of women in the community on climate change”

“There is need to build capacity of various law makers at County level on policy and advocacy for natural resources conservation. This will enhance inclusion of ecosystem conservation and restoration agenda during policy formulation process. Thank you”

“The laid down action plans should be implemented with greater involvement of women and children at the grassroots.”

“Community-based Conservation Organization at the grassroots level involved in restoration work to be given priority when funding opportunity arise.”

“Make it a regular activity”

“Create ample time for the webinars”

“More time should be allocated for thematic group deliberations.”

“It was an insightful and positive discussion around landscape restoration. Looking forward to global and continental conferences for sharing experiences and techniques.”

“Emphasis should be put on tree growing rather than just planting. Government agencies, individuals and NGOs have records of a million trees planted yet the ground doesn't depict the same. I do highly appreciate these efforts though.”

“The conference should be made an annual event to take stock of landscape restoration strides yearly.”
